Analysis

Our portfolio posted a decent return of 4.46% this month. We easily beat the benchmark S&P 500's loss of 5.36% by a massive 982 bps. The modified stop-losses strategy with a suggested 60-40 allocation also beat the benchmark but posted a small loss of 0.35%. The trailing 12 month percentage return is -11.33% for the newsletter and 9.07% for the S&P 500 index. Since inception our portfolio has returned 88.57%.

It has been a rough period for our strategy over the past year or so as the markets powered up to new highs and we kept our short side, which held back returns. However, with the current market swoon of more than 100 points we once again—as we did in the great crash a few years ago—see the power of the market neutral approach. While long-only portfolios are getting battered, we post a very significant gain of almost 4.5%. Note too that stop-losses of 15% really paid off this month with the stop-losses return of the portfolio beating the non stop-losses option by 243 bps.

As one would expect, we see almost no turnover for our short side and establish only two new positions—cover Innerworkings and Town Sports. Longs see more turnover and we only retain ATK, SBGL, STRZA, and SAFM. To save on transaction costs, you may retain CAAS, MHO, and DHT on the long side but as always, we don't recommend chasing the losers.

For the first time in a very long time, undervalued stocks outnumber overvalued stocks according to our valuation model. Only 40% of the stocks we can assign a valuation are calculated to be overvalued-- with 10% of them calculated to be overvalued by 20% or more. This means we see more of a buyer's market at this point and those with capital may wish to establish positions in previously overvalued stocks.

Those with a greater appetite for risk may wish to allocate with a slight short-bias (40-60)

Why Market Neutral?

Market neutral investing allows lower volatility—at the cost of absolute returns—and will provide steadier, more consistent returns over time. In essence, when you run a market neutral portfolio you are operating your own hedge fund minus the hefty fees for management and performance—not to mention the restrictive and onerous “qualified investor” requirements. In addition, the use of the short-side stocks to pay for the longs provides leverage in the ratio of 1:1 and over time allows for great advantages in terms of total return.

The attached performance chart illustrates the wealth accumulation profiles of the VE Forecast 16 MNS portfolio versus the S&P 500.

As you can see, the VE Forecast 16 MNS portfolio—green line-- has provided slow and steady returns over the past three years despite the roiled markets.

How to Use this Portfolio

You should always carefully research the stock picks provided in this newsletter for information on dividend payment schedules, mergers, stock splits, corporate actions, SEC activities, “acts of God,” etc. ValuEngine's proprietary models cannot always calculate the impact of such events on portfolio picks and all investment targets should be subjected to an additional human “sanity check.”

Our research and development program has extensively tested the VE Forecast Model MNS portfolios in a variety of sizes and configurations. Typically, we run them as an equally allocated portfolio—all stocks garnering equal investment capital—and we re-balance monthly. However, this portfolio can be used in long, short, or MNS configurations. Flexibility can be achieved by varying the portfolio allocation according to your view of market conditions. If the markets are strong and you are a more aggressive investor, increase the ratio between the long and short side—and vice versa. Experienced investors may want to run just one side of the portfolio under certain conditions. Prudent stop losses may help boost performance—especially on the short side.

If you are seeking to save on transaction costs, then remember to retain picks that appear on the alternate list or as recommended for that month rather than closing the position. Stocks identified for retention are in the top-three of that particular sector for the month and may drift in and out of portfolio inclusion.

Additional Information on MNS

Longtime ValuEngine View Portfolio Manager Eric Stokes' book “Market Neutral Investing” provides both a theoretical and practical guide to the market neutral approach and is a valuable guide for investors seeking to hedge their portfolios. It is available here.

VALUENGINE'S METHODOLOGY

ValuEngine's research combines the most advanced academic concepts with real world Wall Street practice. The result is state-of-the-art fair market valuation and price forecasting technologies.

ValuEngine's stock valuation employs a sophisticated, three-factor approach. Fundamental variables, such as a company's trailing 12-month Earnings-Per-Share (EPS), the analyst consensus estimate of the company's future 12-month EPS, and the 30-year Treasury yield, are all used to create a more accurate reflection of a company's fair value. Together with eleven additional variables, ValuEngine paints a detailed picture of a company's fair value, represented by the model price.

ValuEngine's stock forecasts examine, among other things, short-term price reversals, intermediate-term momentum continuation, and long-term price reversals over six time horizons for every industry to ensure forecasts are established relative to a stock's proper peer groups. Advanced statistical/econometric techniques are used to run thousands of simulations estimating the probability of a double in stock price, as well as the probability of meeting and exceeding any given portfolio or stock investment target.

The stock's engine rating is an assessment of its overall attractiveness. It combines valuation, risk-return trade-off, momentum, market capitalization and forecasted future returns. Only two percent of the stock universe receives the highest 5-engine rating. The lowest rating is a single engine.
